

CADE-22

Montreal, Canada

Brigitte Pientka

School of Computer Science

McGill University

CADE participation

	CADE-22 Montreal	IJCAR'08 Sydney	CADE-21 Bremen
Full	63	62	44
Full (Late)	6	13	21
Students	42	25	38
Invited Speakers	3
Herbrand Winner	1
Total	115	100	103

Higher number of CADE participants

Workshop participation

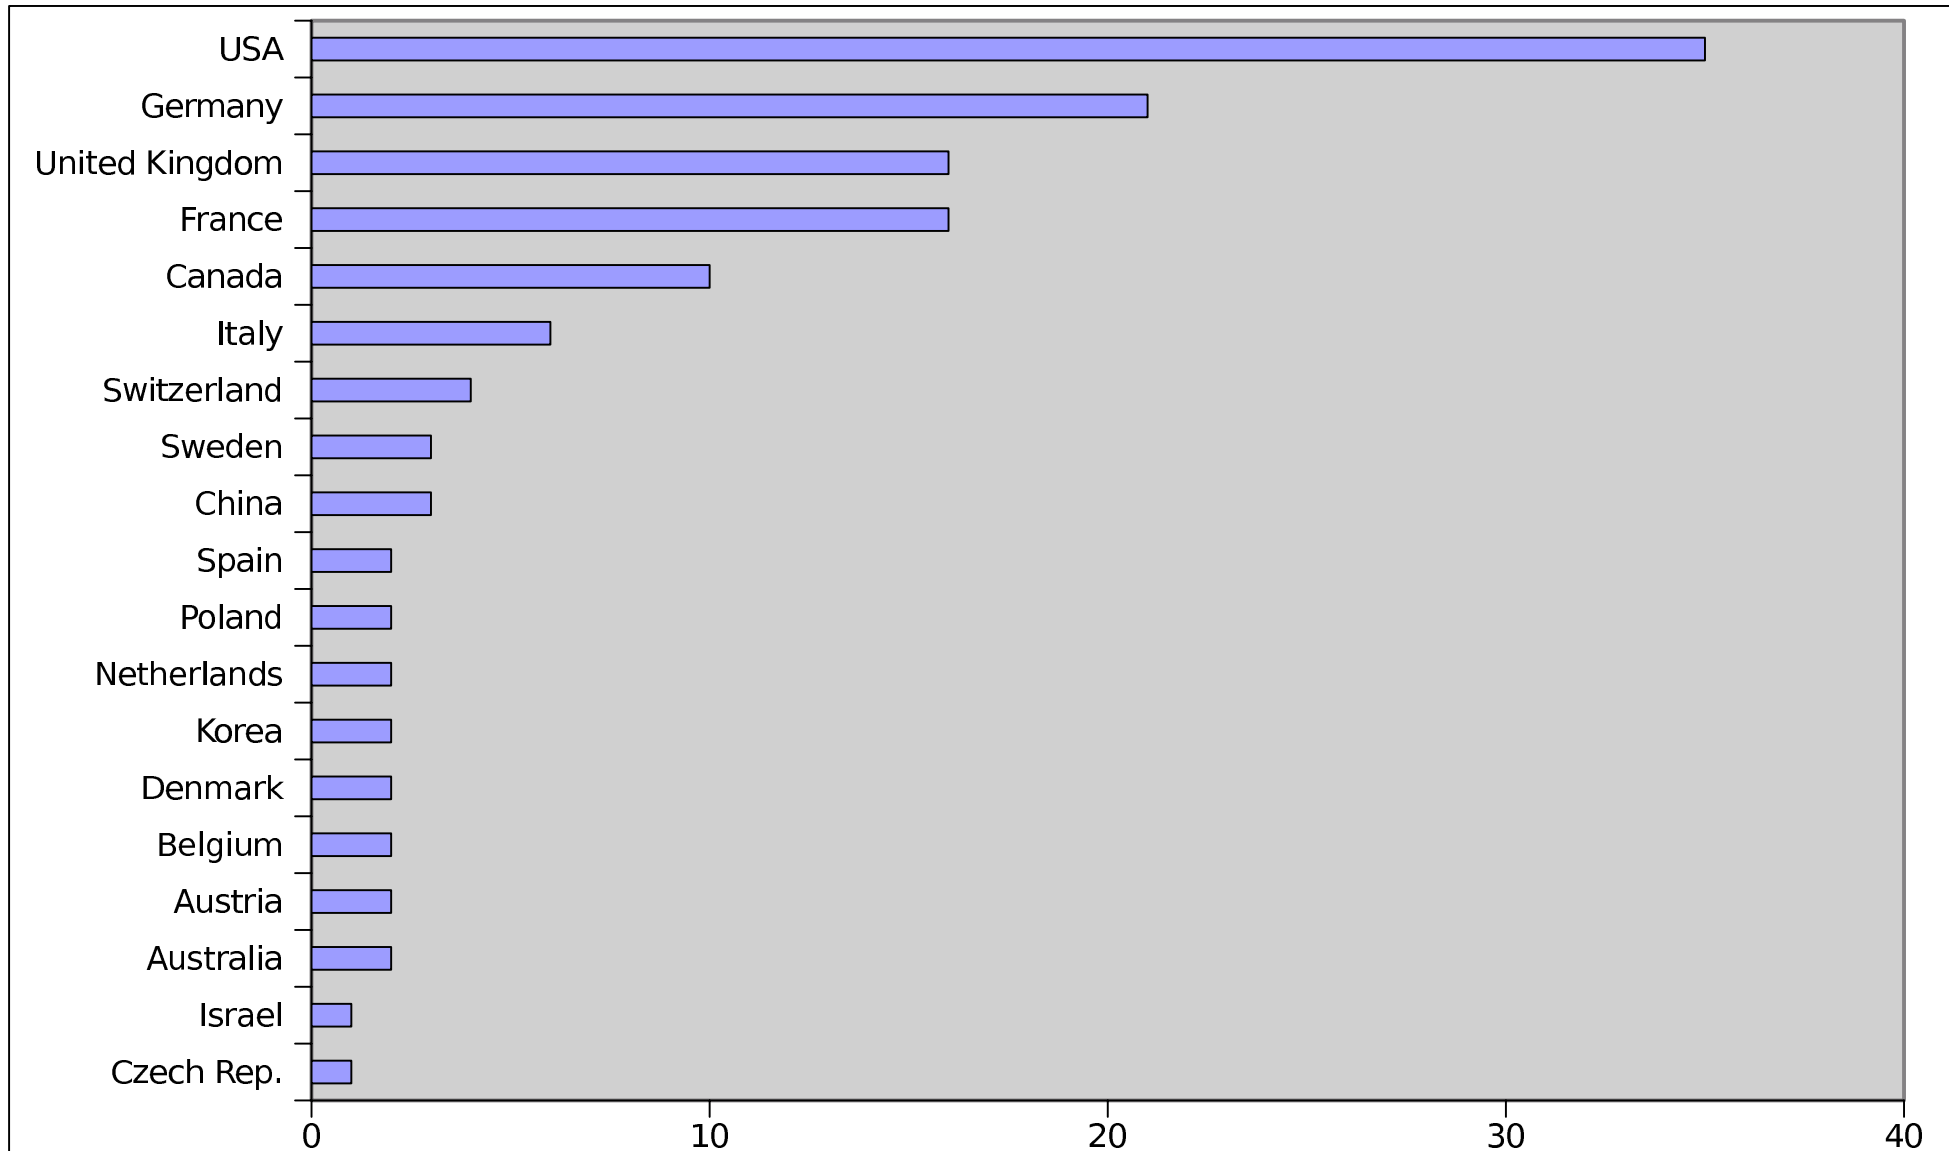

Workshop/Tutorial	CADE-22	IJCAR'08	CADE-21
Day 1	105	74
Day 2	110	79
Total	215	163	113

Higher number of workshop/tutorial participants

System competition

- CASC (16 participants)
- SMT-COMP (New)

Where are participants from ...

General principle

- Every event must break even.
- Keep CADE registration fees reasonable
Slightly lower than in previous years
- Actively encourage early registration
- Keep workshop registration fees reasonable
- Modest budget to reimburse partially workshop invited speakers
- Woody Bledsoe Awards : $7,075 (10% of the budget)
15 Woody Bledsoe Award winners

Sponsorship

- Faculty of Science, McGill University
- School of Computer Science, McGill University
- Microsoft
- Some sponsorship money did not come through
- 18% of the budget

Thank you to the local team

- Students in the Computation and Logic group:
Maja Frydrychowicz, Ali Assaf, Dimitri Kirchner,
Joshua Dunfield, Ian Clement
- Our systems staff:
Andrew Bogecho and Ron Simpson
- Our admin staff:
Heather Holowathy, Sheryl Morrissey, Vanessa
Bettencourt-Laberge

Summary

- Higher number of CADE participants than expected
- Higher number of workshop/tutorial participants
- Higher number of student participants
- Modest surplus expected

ENJOY IT!